CONOCO N
MOTOR OIL

Sure as you live...sure as you eat must live...you'll want a change to the lightest motor oil that your engine can use this Winter of War.

Waiting for a "real cold day" before draining overweight oil that drags when it chills, is like waiting for your battery's doom. This drug of overweight oil wastes gasoline, too. And can worse is the big chance of internal damage because overweight oil won't squirt and spray into friction zones of your engine quickly. For the sake of your battery, your gasoline coupons, and your engine, change to your lightest practical grade of oil.

You can quit wondering whether "one grade better" might be on the safe side. It can be as safe as possible with your engine OIL-PLATING your lightest suitable grade of Conoco Nth motor oil. Isach carrying capacity is doubled by synthetic means. And this also creates "magnet-like" action to keep lubricant closely fastened to inner engine surfaces in the form of OIL-PLATING. Even the lightest grade of Conoco Nth oil will give your engine the high protection of oil-plate. Ask Your Milagro Mechanic today to recommend the grade suitable for your car. PLANS FOR WEST VIRGINIA

A program directed at better hunting and fishing in West Virginia has been presented to the sportsmen and farmers of the state by Irving A. Cohen, recently become a member of the State Conservation Commission. Cohen is president of both the Outdoor Men and Farmers Association and the Kanawha Game and Fish Association of that state.

Bearing ponds for both forage and game fish are among the recommendations to permit stocking not only of more fish but of larger trout. Also urged is extensive planting of food plants for wildlife, with cooperation of farmers and landowners, seed and seedling to be supplied by the Commission. Restoration of forest lands is advocated as well as the planting of cover and food trees along the boundaries of state forests and parks so that sportsmen may benefit from the overflow of game. The state now owns more than 100,000 acres of forests.

One in the Hand is worth two in the Bush

Before starting on your hunting trip you should make sure that you know what game you can or cannot hunt. Last season our friend and well-known popular Nimrod, Albert V. Fitzwater, known by all as "Judge," had a very unfortunate experience.

The day before the season started, accompanied by two of his sons-in-law, Keith Pauley and Carl Zogg, the "Judge" started out for his favorite hunting grounds in Nicholas county. When they started for the woods to hunt squirrels the "Judge" told the boys to be careful and not violate any game laws. He even advised them as to the penalties for violations. After hunting most of the day the "Judge" shot two squirrels and Keith and Carl had one each.

The "Judge" feeling a wee bit tired picked out a hickory tree and stretched himself upon the ground, and soon was in the arms of Morpheus. After about an hour's time he got up, reached for his gun, when he saw a flock of eleven wild turkeys about twenty yards away. The "Judge," being a law-abiding citizen and a member of the Gospel, took aim at the turkeys, and then turned to his sons-in-law and said, "It's just my luck to be able to get a shot like this and the turkey season doesn't start until Armistice Day."

By this time the turkeys had disappeared out of shooting range and the "Judge" feeling pretty tough and disappointed at not being, as he thought, able to shoot at the turkeys, said "Let's go boys," and started off for the farm house where they were staying. Upon their arrival at the house the "Judge" related his ex-

Experience with the turkeys to the farmer known as Oscar Greenleaf. As the "Judge" told his tale of woe, Oscar burst into a fit of laughter. The "Judge" wanted to know what the joke was, then Oscar finally told him that he had muffed his chance of getting a turkey, as the turkey season came in on the same date as the grouse and squirrel season. However, things will be different from now on. New WMC Program Tightens Control On Job Changing MARLINTON, Oct. 13. A new program of job changing control by the War Relocation Authority (WRA) will be in effect here today. The program, which was developed by the WRA's director, Mr. J. H. Brown, is designed to tighten control over the job changing process. It will require that all job changes be approved by the WRA before they can be made. The program is being implemented in order to ensure that the war effort is not disrupted by unnecessary job changes. It is expected that the program will be in effect for some time to come.

The program provides that a person who has been employed in a certain job for a period of 60 days must first obtain approval from the WRA before he can be transferred to another job. This approval is based on the person's record and the needs of the war effort. The program is designed to prevent the kind of job changing that has been common in the past, which has often resulted in the loss of valuable workers to the war effort.

The residents of this vicinity had an opportunity to witness a realistic reproduction of Uncle Sam's fighting men using the maneuvers, guns, armor and war equipment as employed in actual battles or foreign fronts when the long Army "Salute to Wood" Caravan passed through Marlinton on Tuesday. They also viewed some of the exhibits of the time products which are used by our armed forces in the war and which are now being vitally related to the Nation's war effort.

A crowd estimated at 1,000 persons gathered at the Marlinton high school athletic field shortly after 1 o'clock Tuesday, and with a mixture of curiosity and solemnity viewed the spectacular performance. The sight of our fighting men with guns, bayonets, jeeps and scout cars and staged exhibitions of jungle fighting, which is America's answer to Oriental jiu jitsu.

The band and orchestra, equipped with musical numbers and a group of soldiers engaged in a comic interlude portraying "K.P." duty. A demonstration of how a machine gun is transformed into an anti-aircraft gun was also given.

The rattle of machine gun fire, the hum of heavier guns and the roar of bombs, of flame-throwers and rockets were realistic to the ideal.

Dining was planned for the visiting soldiers Tuesday night under the sponsorship of the local Rotary Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Participating in the event here was a complete war-strength company of infantry troops with full field equipment, 350 enlisted men, including medical unit, technicians and 34-piece Army band, accompanied by six combat veterans of the Army, Navy and Marines, recently returned from foreign battlefields where all of them were wounded.

Uncle "Pud" Tucker

By HOY McCUSKEY

ARSENIC AND "OLD ACE"

When the husband pulled a little white bundle of fuzz out of the sleeve of his overcoat, a puppy won a heart and a home. We named him "Ace" because the husband had him up his sleeve. Within a year's time Ace developed into a handsome dog, loved by all our neighbors and their kids for his courage and devotion. His companionship we lost when the War came along and spoiled it all. The Army needed "Ace" badly and after several heart-breaking fireable conferences, we reluctantly sent him to a Training Camp where he passed all of his tests with flying colors. For months we heard nothing about him, but yesterday we received the following message:

South Pacific—1943

Dear friends: I'm writing you a few lines to tell you about "Old Ace." He's my buddy in this Pasatomp outfit. You see, when I drop out of the clouds for somewhere in Togo's land, "Old Ace" drops right behind me and we usually land on the dirt about the same time. Twice in the last month he has saved my life—he gets him before they have time to pop a hand grenade. He hates a Jap and Arsenic alike. There's no difference between "Old Ace" and a Victory Bond—they both are life savers and we both have in the lungs.

ITALY: Take Big Base

The once beautiful port of Naples smoldered in ruins as Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army clattered through its streets. To the north of the city, long German columns made their way toward Rome, 135 miles away, where they were expected to make their next stand in the hills.

Before giving up Naples, the Germans destroyed the elaborate docks and warehouses and other installations that had made the port one of Europe's finest. As a result, time will be required to reopen the port for Allied use in supplying the armies marching northward.

The German retreat at Naples also was influenced by Gen. Bernard Montgomery's flanking movement along the Adriatic coast to the East. By turning its way northward, Montgomery's army had pushed behind the Germans, threatening to cut them off from the rear by crossing the mountains to the west.

WORLD AVIATION: Seek U. S. Share

Returning from a 40,000-mile tour of the battle fronts, Senators James Mead, N. Y., Richard Russell, Ga., and Ralph Brewster, Maine, declared U. S. commercial aviation companies would be denied use of airports built in foreign countries by America.

The senators called upon congress to make provisions now for U. S. use of the airframes by including agreements in lend-lease assistance. The senators also declared that while the U. S. was supplying the Allies with 65 per cent of their oil, Great Britain was not fully exploiting her tremendous petroleum reserves in Persia. At the present rate of consumption, they said, our oil will be used up in 11 years.

Any attempt to reduce the importance of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command in the South Pacific by placing him under the supreme direction of Lord Mountbatten would be bitterly resisted by Australian Prime Minister John Curtin, the senators said.

RUSSIA: Near Poland

Russian troops drove within 100 miles of the old Polish border in the southern sector of the long front, while other Red forces assaulted German positions on the west bank of the great Dnieper river in the north.

Planning to lead their new line, the Germans would be pushed out of the Baltic, Latvia and Lithuania, and they would lose substantial control of their Baltic sea route to Finland.

GAS: New Rations

Because the Midwest and Southwest were exceeding their gasoline allotments by 75,000 barrels a day, the OPA reduced their "B" and "C" coupon rations from three to two gallons. Similar reductions were made in the Southeast.

At the same time, "B" and "C" coupon rations in the Northeast were cut from 2 1/2 to 2 gallons, while "A" coupons in the East were boosted from 1 1/2 to 2 gallons.

In announcing the new rations, OPA declared that it was intended to force the use of at least one gallon out of the three gallons on the "A" coupon for occupational driving.

FARM: Guarantee Payments

Appearing before a congressional committee, War Food Administrator Marvin Jones asked for an additional 500 million dollars for the Commodity Credit Corporation to provide farmers with guarantee payments in the 1944 production program.

The CCC now has a fund of 500 million dollars. It is intended to use this money for loans on major crops like wheat, cotton, corn, wool, tobacco and potatoes. With the extra 500 million dollars, guarantee payments would be advanced on vegetable oil crops, dry beans and peas, sugar beets, fresh truck and fruit crops, and canning crops.

Jones sought authority to buy surplus crops and absorb loss through resale at lower ceiling prices. He also asked power to resell perishable commodities like fruits and vegetables which the government might obtain through price-supporting purchases, at less than parity.

DRAFT: Asks New System

Tightening up of deferments of men under 30 years of age and the draft of dads by age groups was proposed by Senator Robert A. Taft during debate on Senator Burton Wheeler's bill for postponing the induction of fathers until January 1.

Taft's proposal would grant deferments of men under 30 only if the deferment were approved by the men's own draft board and the draft board having jurisdiction in the territory where the deferment would be granted. Fathers under 25 would be called into service before those over 25 but under 30. Those over 30 would be called last.

Taft also proposed that the President establish a medical commission to study the possibility of lowering physical standards to draw more single 4F's into the service.

For Higher Allowances

Higher allowances for children of service men provided for in a senate bill, were supported by the army.

The bill would raise the monthly payment for one child from $12 to $18, and for every child thereafter from $10 to $11. The present payment of $10 to wives would be continued, with the government contributing $20 and the service man $22.

An army spokesman also advocated higher allowances for other dependents. Where a service man is not supporting a wife or child, it was recommended allowances to one parent be located from $37 to $50 monthly, and for two parents from $47 to $60. In cases where the service man is supporting a wife and child, all women for a parent would be raised from $20 to $21, and for two parents from $30 to $31. The army said it was in no position to make payments to financially independent or unfaithful wives.

POST-WAR: Study Peace Policy

Reportedly believing that other nations might take the full right of decision as an indication of America's unwillingness to exercise its full right of decision in world politics after the war, the senate foreign relations subcommittee moved to kill the bill.

The senate moved to write a bill of its own, broadly expressing America's post-war peace policy. It was thought that in so doing, support could be rallied for Sen. Arthur Vandenberg's provision assuring America's independence in determining her action in any program.

As chairman of the senate's foreign relations committee, Sen. Tom Connally led the move to kill the Fulbright resolution. Connally has indicated America should await further development in world politics growing out of the war before committing itself to any course.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC: Fight to Last

Stubborn Japanese fought to the death as the Allies closed in on their base at Finschhafen. But the Allies were able to bring superior forces to bear from the north, west and south, and the Japs lacked the numbers to shift to meet the attacks.

While the Allied air force continued to pound Jap bases throughout the entire Southwest Pacific area, U. S. airmen reported the appearance of a "super-Zero" enemy fighter plane. Not only can this new plane outlive our P-38, it was said, but also affords the pilot better protection than the old Zero because of heavier armor.

Cavalry Rides Again

As a result of the mountainous terrain of Sicily and Italy, cavalry has come into its own again in this war.

Former cowboys and rodeo performers are astride the horses that are being ridden over rocky and craggy country where motor vehicles cannot be driven, to deliver food, water and other supplies to troops. Sometimes they escort mule packs.

Perched atop their mounts, the cavalrymen are often in position to detect machine gunners hidden under natural cover, and when they do, they pepper them with the small, yellow grenades.

WHEAT: Canadian Purchases

Canadian Purchases

With sales of wheat as feed running about one million bushels a day, the Commodity Credit Corporation has gone into Canadian markets to bolster its stocks, recently estimated at 129 million bushels.

Total purchases from Canada have reached 30 million bushels, of which 22,500,000 bushels have been shipped into the country. Of the unshipped total, 3,500,000 bushels are waiting to be moved over water from northwestern ports.

Since July 1, CCC wheat sales principally for feed have approximated 111,500,000 bushels.

MEXICO: Settle Oil Claims

In final settlement for oil properties which it took away from American nationals in 1933, Mexico agreed to pay a total of $29,137,700, of which $5,141,709 represents interest at 3 per cent.

During negotiations for the settlement, the American nationals had claimed the seized properties had a valuation of hundreds of millions of dollars. But a commission of experts trimmed this claim to $23,995,991.

Under terms of the agreement, the present balance of payments will be made in four annual installments.

U. S. WAR PLANTS: 13 Billion Stake

Speaking before a congressional committee, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones advocated the sale of the government's 13 billion dollars worth of war plants and other property to local interests after the ending of hostilities.

The government now controls 50 per cent of aluminum production; 92 per cent of steel; 100 per cent of synthetic rubber and high octane gasoline; 90 per cent of machine tools, and 90 per cent of aircraft. In addition, it owns 47,000 square miles of land, the area of six New England states.

TIRES: Quota Reduced

Motorists will have to get along with fewer tires in October than in September. The Office of Price Administration has reduced the quota from 1,000 to 843,000 for this month.

Under the new ruling, only motorists with a 1941 or more motor vehicle can qualify for new tires. By October 1, only 1,000 tires will be available from the ration list.

Three-Nation Agreement Essential to World Peace

Evidence Points to Existence of Conciliatory Atmosphere Between U. S., Russia and England; Common Sense Pact Necessary.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Through the past days, Washington has been anxiously watching a very trying, very delicate and difficult operation—the attempt to break in a stubborn three-horse team which has never pulled together before.

The difficult journey toward an understanding to be reached by personal conversations across the table between Britain, the United States and Russia has begun. Following perhaps secret tripartite conferences between representatives of the three nations is the planned meeting of the heads of the three foreign offices. Questions frankly discussed with unsolved problems left open (if plans don't go awry) will then be taken up between Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill personally.

It is a tremendous undertaking. This three-horse team has never run in harness together before. America has never been harnessed at all; Soviet Russia has had only one short and violent experience—that with Germany—which ended in disaster; and as for Britain, she is accustomed to being lead-horse; therefore, a lot of patience will be needed to hitch all three abreast.

There is a whole library of documentation to prove that an all-for-one, one-for-all agreement among these three nations is impossible. But it must be remembered that there were 13 powerful reasons why a United States of America was impossible too.

The present goal is not the formation of a triple alliance. The present problem is simply to get a common sense agreement between three nations without which a post-war situation is bound to arise which Prime Minister Churchill described as "confusion." And when he used that word, he made a new high for English understatement. Few doubt that he meant war.

Arguments Against

As I said, there are plenty of reasons which can be cited why the United States and Britain and Russia cannot possibly agree but there are other reasons why they can.

There are two things which stand out in most people's minds as evidences that Stalin is not playing ball now and doesn't want to. One is the recurrent complaint in the official Russian press and earlier statements by Stalin himself to the effect that Russia is decidedly displeased with the Allies for not having built a second front by invading Europe from the British Isles. The other is the Moscow sponsorship of a Free Germany committee which appears to hold out better terms to Germany than unconditional surrender which the Allies demand.

Recently, I talked with a military man who suggested that perhaps the call for a second front after the invasion of Italy was part of an agreement with the Allies to confuse Germany. Churchill has said that he was assured by Stalin, when the Russian drive began this summer, that the Russians were confident that they could withstand German attack. As things have turned out, the Germans have not been able to counterattack. They have ordered a general retreat. It was admitted by military experts at first that this is a planned and orderly retreat. After the invasion of Italy, the Germans admitted that it was a general retreat. Now it looks like a rout. In other words, the creation of the "third front" in the Mediterranean has forced the Germans to give up the idea of attempting a counter-offensive. But since the slender hope of Hitler lies in dissension among the United Nations, why should Russia let him know that she was satisfied with any Allied action?

Free Germany Committee

As to the Free Germany committee, Russia itself has not made any direct official statement concerning it. It is not officially backed up its program. It is composed of German prisoners in Russia who demand of their fellow-countrymen that Germany get rid of her present rulers and surrender. That in itself is something everyone wants to see. How much short of unconditional surrender that is, certainly is open to friendly discussion. We know that it worked in regard to the Italian surrender terms.

Now, what are the main propositions which Britain, America and Russia do not see eye to eye?

In the first place, there is the question of "spheres of influence"—the Balkans, the Middle East, the Mediterranean.

I have been told by persons presuming to speak with authority, that Russia suggested the creation of the Mediterranean commission, a body made up of representatives from Moscow, London and Washington, meeting on equal terms. That commission, whoever thought it up, was agreed upon. Historically, Britain has always refused Russia any hand in Mediterranean affairs. That would seem to be a step forward and even before the commission could start functioning, Russia was allowed to have her say concerning the terms of the Italian surrender. Agreement was reached up to the terms.

That would seem to indicate that a conciliatory atmosphere has been created in advance. Unless Russia is absolutely unwilling to make compromises, we can expect reconciliation when the questions of the Balkans and the Middle East arise, where there have always been similar conflict of interests.

The Baltic States

Another very sensitive question is the difference of opinion as to the treatment of the small nations which lie on Russia's western frontiers, notably the Baltic states. It is said that Russia feels that as soon as the German armies are driven back into the Reich, these border states, especially Lithuania and Estonia, a part of Poland and perhaps a part of Rumania (we leave the others aside for the moment, including Finland) are an integral part of Russia.

The United States, on the other hand, has always stood for the rights of small nations, for self-determination. Of course, Russia argues that plebiscites which indicate a desire to join the Soviet Republics have already been taken in part of the territory and if they were taken again, they would show the same results. That they express the will of the Nationals is denied by representatives of these countries in Washington.

Great Britain leans toward an acceptance of Russia's views however. The point has yet to be settled with the United States.

An additional point, which is really the one which has always caused suspicion on the part of Britain and America, is the question of communist propaganda spread by Russia for the purpose of overthrowing all capitalist governments. This is balanced by the fear on the part of Russia that capitalist governments are bent on destroying her as a communist state.

This is a tough one admittedly but not beyond the solution by honest men. Nor do honest men despair of its settlement.

Post-War Russia

From a purely cynical and material standpoint, it can be argued that post-war Russians will not attempt any move against Britain or America, either from within by propaganda and intrigue or from without by military attack because they will be an exhausted nation when the war is over. Competent observers believe it will take several generations for Russia to recover. Therefore, Russia's chief advantage will be gained by co-operation with other nations rather than by threats of aggression. To some degree, that also applies to Britain. Unquestionably, the United States will emerge from the war the greatest military power in the world. Only a combination of powers could defeat her. There rests, then, the moral responsibility on America of wise and generous use of her power—noblesse oblige.

This, I admit, is the bright side of the medal. But until the attempts toward tripartite discussion and agreement have utterly failed, there is no reason why the medal should not be presented, shiny side up.

When I hear you and others say that men of 30 and 40 years are poor fighting material I wonder if the white race is not going into decay or that civilization does not do more harm to men than good.—New York.

The record made by Victory gardeners this season—20 million gardens, four million acres under cultivation, and a total yield of about eight million tons of food.

Five thousand people would have to buy 100 war bonds (at the subscription price of $75) to pay for the same amount of food as the 1,000 Victory Gardens and over the Rhineland.

A law passed in 1939 forbids the secretary of the treasury and the treasurer of the United States from buying war bonds.

Early Smoking

When tobacco was first introduced in England during the 16th century, it was literally used in gold—a pound of tobacco was commonly sold for an equal weight of silver and coins.

The art of smoking was also regarded most seriously, and it was considered a disgrace not to be able to inhale smoke through a nose. There were even regulations of smoking which limited the number of cigarettes to be smoked in a day.

Peeved

The State Tax Commissioner has announced that hereafter his office will give out no comparative figures on tax collections. Mr. Alderson and his aides have become extremely sensitive to the constant criticisms of exorbitant taxes levied in West Virginia so they've decided to do what they can to obscure a clear picture of the vast tax exactions in the state. The department's action is a fine example of petty peevishness and bureaucracy; an attempted usurpation of dictatorial power to impose a puerile censorship on legitimate news that has always been freely released by the department.

When the 1943 Legislature cut taxes, the governor wailed and raved and predicted that the poor would suffer, institutions would close, the state would totter on the verge of bankruptcy. From that time on, neither he, nor his spokesmen, has lost an opportunity to prophesy financial difficulty for state government. Swollen tax returns from gross sales and consumers sales, especially, have proved the governor's predictions merely figments of his active imagination. State government has far more of the taxpayers' money today than is good for either the state house (except politically) or the taxpayers.

The tax department's refusal to play ball with the public; its evident determination to do what it can to keep the public from realizing just how much money the Neely administration is picking from its pockets; its assumption that it alone is entitled to comparative tax information; and its erection of barriers to try to keep the people in the dark, is petty politics of such puny stature that it is matched only by the bureaucratic brains which designed it!

Ta-Ra-Ra—Boom-De-Ray!

On her Pacific junket, Mrs. Roosevelt had her picture taken wearing a grass skirt a la hula hula. It was widely published in Australian papers but was withheld from newspapers in the United States.

Put Out of Business

The State Department of Labor, making an annual survey, reports that 455 business establishments have closed, and letters sent to 199 more were returned marked "Unclaimed." That's a heavy mortality among the little businesses of West Virginia!

Most of those who have been forced out of business say their failure was caused by just two things: "Shortages" for one, but "OPA regulations" for the most serious.

"Relief"

The House of Delegates committee to investigate the cost of state government reports that from November 1934 to June 10, 1943, the Department of Public Assistance, spent $1,000,000. During that period, it cost $11,012,257 for administration.

Officials in these six years spent $1,222,816 for travel. They visited New York, Washington, Philadelphia, Louisville, Jacksonville, Atlanta, New Orleans, St. Paul and St. Louis among other spots. They spent $1,000,000 for administration.

NOW that the crops have been harvested the big job ahead is feeding and caring for the dairy herd during the barn feeding season.

Fall calves usually grow better than spring calves because they're fed and cared for in the barn all winter. But any calf will grow better if you baby it to some extent. Teach it to drink from a pail and then teach it to eat Southern States Calf Starter. Let it lick the Calf Starter from your fingers while it's mouth is still wet with milk. With Southern States Dry Calf Starter you can save from $15 to $30 in raising a calf to 4 months of age. In addition to the money saving you release from $50 to 1250 pounds of milk for human consumption.

If your herd is full of good roughage, Southern States 12% Quality Dairy is an excellent feed for cows in milk or for your young stock and dry cows. Built mostly from high quality ground grain, it contains good high protein ingredients and is fortified with minerals and vitamins. Enos and Enoch

Back in the days of Enos
Men called upon the Lord,
But walked the mount and downward way,
Contrary to His Word.

It was not until Enoch—
Four generations later,
That anybody walked with Him
To please the great Creator.

In Genesis, fifth chapter,
And at verse twenty-two,
We read that Enoch walked with God
Which means that he was true

To the great God of heaven
And tried to speak His truth
In spite of many enemies
Who hated him forsooth.

In Jude fourteen and fifteen
We read what Enoch said,
Which caused the world to hate him and—
To wish that he were dead.

The Lord took righteous Enoch
And hid him from the sight
Of those who hated him because
He spoke the truth outright.

As in the days of Enos
So is it at this day—
Men call upon God's holy name
And walk the other way.

But there are some like Enoch
Who speak God's Word however
And God will hide them from their foes

And show them loving favor.

GYPSUM HELPS ELIMINATE PROPELLER BOTTLE-NECK

American manufacturing ingenuity has again helped to break a bottle-neck which was holding up delivery of vital boats to our vast fighting fronts. Through development of a special gypsum product, called Hydrotone, by the United States Gypsum Company, the factory in which the above photo was taken has multiplied its production of propellers by being able to duplicate existing pattern equipment easily and at low cost. The picture shows the two men at the left finishing a new Hydrotone pattern and, at the right, the workman is preparing one for use in making sand molds for casting. Location of the factory cannot be given because of war time restrictions.

Gypsum is helping speed many other vital war jobs. One of these is its use as a mold for bullet-proof gas tanks. It's also being used for mock-ups in the design of airplane wings. In one of gypsum's more common forms for building, hundreds of millions of feet of fireproof gypsum boards have been delivered to military camps, barracks, hospitals, air bases and other war construction, where it has increased fire safety while replacing scarce or unavailable lumber. Since this modern material for construction comes in large, uniform boards, it saves labor, relieving the manpower shortage. It is also widely used for home repair jobs.

"Sure, I Use Electricity, but I'm not Wasting Any"

You don't need to observe the working and living habits of the average farmer to know that he's thrifty. He has to be to wrest a living from the soil for his family. Conservation—a big name for a little thing known as "saving"—is his creed. Increasingly, it is becoming his creed . . . and need . . . for all of us. In the case of Electricity, for example, Uncle Sam is asking us not to waste any, even though the supply seems inexhaustible. There is no shortage in this section, to be sure, but where there may be, because of unusual war demands and shortages of coal, transportation and other things. So . . . consider it your personal patriotic duty to make the best possible use of all the Electric Power you need and just as carefully guard against wasting any. No way there'll be plenty for everybody and rationing will never happen!

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

South America supplied 65 per cent of the world's rubber needs in 1890, while in 1922 only about 6 per cent came from that section, for fast plantation development accounts for the drop in the demand for Amazon Valley rubber.

Synthetic rubber is defined as a man-made combination of molecules that form a substance having the chief characteristics of crude rubber.

In 1928 the total of American-controlled rubber plantations was about 250,000 acres, mostly in the far East. These plantations produced 40,000 tons annually, or about 8 per cent of U. S. imports.

History Made in Bathroom

There's an interesting picture of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt working together in "How War Came to America," just published in England.

When Mr. Churchill was staying at the White House in December, 1941, he and the President were looking for the right phrase to describe the Allied nations. In bed on the morning of the 31st President Roosevelt had an inspiration. He got up at once to seek Mr. Churchill—and found him in his bath. Quoting from the book: "How about the 'United Nations'?" he called out, as Churchill brought his soapy head above water. The prime minister ducked again to rinse the last of the soap from his eyes, shook his head, and turned a dripping gaze on the President. "That," he said, "should do it."

And that—from one master phrase-maker to another—was a real tribute.

HERE IS A MAN WHO KNOWS FARM PROBLEMS

I do not believe there is any man in America who has a clearer comprehension of the big and little problems of American agriculture than Frank McMillen. He knows the ways of the dirt farmer through long years of experience and he is still operating a farm of that character. As a legislator and president of the American Farm Bureau, he knows the future possibilities of American agriculture.

He has been directly instrumental in passing laws for farm production and in that increased production is the future of America. He knows the American farmer better than any man who seeks to understand him. His efforts have been to increase the production of farm products. His efforts have been to increase the production of farm products. His efforts have been to increase the production of farm products.

• TALKING ABOUT PEOPLE AND EVENTS •

It was a busy day for the family. The children were all in school, and the mother was busy with her work. The father was also busy, but he managed to find time to spend with his family. They all enjoyed the day, and the children were happy to be back in school.

Overweight Oil makes Old Cars Older—Fast

A Light grade of oil can make good, with your engine Winter OIL-PLATED

You can change from an OIL-PLATED engine by changing to any grade of Conoco Nth motor oil—from lightest to heaviest—and you can change to any grade of Conoco Nth at the same popular price. But the lightest possible grade of oil that's fit for the Winter change your car needs now will help to save your battery—your gasoline—your engine. The more the oil is overweight the greater the wear, and when that makes you try still heavier oil you get still more wear—still more oil and gasoline consumption—worse and worse and worse. Short-circuit this ruinous process by having your engine OIL-PLATED.

OIL-PLATING is distinct from the familiar liquid type of high-tensile oil film also provided by Conoco Nth oil. Both oil films and OIL-PLATING are paired against wear every mile. Every time your engine rests, however, any liquid film drains down to the crankcase. But OIL-PLATING doesn't all drain down. It tends to stay wherever attached by Conoco Nth oil's "magnet-like" action—achieved synthetically. Often now you don't use your car for hours. Yet when you start, the OIL-PLATED surfaces are still ready-lubricated... "faster than instantly." That's how the former fierce wear of cold starting is reduced by OIL-PLATING your engine. All other wear, too, meets its match in your OIL-PLATED engine. Change at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station—today. He knows the lightest grade of Nth for you. Continental Oil Company

Dread Engine Acid Fought by OIL-PLATING

Normal combustion always leaves acids inside engine when it stops.

Formerly it seldom stood idle long. Soon mileage and speed heated your engine enough to cast acids.

But nowadays rationing may force long rests, while corrosive acids gnaw. To combat corrosion, metals are plated. You combat acid corrosion with your engine OIL-PLATED.

Have a "Coke" = Auld Lang Syne

...or how to welcome a returning hero

He is looking for the old traveling things - the gang at the corner store, his old room, the family table. That's why the Cold makes such a perfect welcome. He is a soldier like his two cold relatives - out in his barhood. In camp and home he is a soldier. He makes more friends. On his return he says to him, "See, I'm a soldier again. In all of you small things, a soldier was never old. Long live the soldier." He is a soldier. He is a soldier. He is a soldier.

The Trunk of the Tree

FIRST there was just wilderness. Then some men came and cleared away the trees and the underbrush. Pretty soon they started to build a factory—way out to nowhere and gone.

The reason was simple—the land was cheap. Also, they knew they could depend on the railroad's laying a spur line over which they could bring in people and raw materials and ship out to market their finished product.

It wasn't long before a little cluster of houses sprang up for the workers. Roads appeared. An enterprising merchant arrived and opened a general store.

Soon a doctor came and a dentist. A garage went up. Then a drug store, a barber shop, a movie house.

And so the town grew. Nobody planned it that way. American initiative made it that way.

The town grew as opportunity grew. It grew like a tree—slowly, steadily, surely. And the trunk of the tree—the trunk through which the lifeline flowed—was the railroad.

Every man who made his living in that town made it from goods that came in by the railroad, or that went out over its bright rails to markets beyond.

The men who built that town in the wilderness believe with all their hearts in free enterprise. But some of them may not appreciate the extent to which their continued economic freedom depends on freedom of the railroads.

The shens of regimentation may tell us with the theory that it is all very well for private businesses to remain free, but that public carriers should be owned by the government.

But what would this mean in practical terms to every business man in the community we have described? It would mean that his dealings with the railroads would now be on a political instead of a business basis.

And would railroad service be improved? With bureaucrats in charge, and no more competition between lines? You can read the answer in any country in the world where railroads are government-controlled.

Before you listen to those who would "regiment" our railroads, consider whether our business structure could long remain half slave and half free.

And whether, if the axe is laid at the trunk, the whole tree would not suffer.

Presbyterian churches through out the United States and in many other parts of the world are beginning the celebration of the tercentenary of the calling of the famed "Westminster Assembly" by the British Parliament in 1643 to "consult and advise concerning matters of religion." When the original 121 delegates met in the Church of England (Westminster), it was this gathering, which remained in session for almost nine years that formulated the doctrine, form of government and other ideas upon which the world-wide Presbyterian Church is based. For the year 1643, the year led into a war of ideas, the records from the "Conference of 1643" of the Assembly had a great influence upon the "Confession of Faith" of the Church, and each left a stamp upon the doctrines and confessions of men which are in any thing common to his Word, or beside it, in matters of faith or worship. So that we have such doctrines, or confessions, commonly set out of course, as a belief in the liberty of conscience and the requiring of no worship but an absolute blind obedience and every liberty of conscience and reason also."

Ministro to U. S.

The war has brought a great many Englishmen to the United States and otherwise might never have known any more of America than they learned from the movies. Many are highly trained specialists, others are broadly educated, like this newspaper man who with I have in a number, especially of the latter group. And I am struck by one thing which they comment upon: the widespread education in Amer-

That is one thing which will make up one of England's No. 1 positive reforms—a real public school system. We, in America, must establish our own schools on the one hand and overestimate our literature on the other.

At that, the army demanded the man be able to read and write or he was deported. This last meant a million men to the armed forces. Four states have 30 per cent or more adult illiteracy.

According to latest information 113,000 draftees have already been confirmed for army service which means that they have been taught to read and write and do simple arithmetic. It is said that there are 400,000 more in the same line of instruction to 750,000 more.

But that in by no means the extent of army information. A statement from the Office of War Information the other day said, "One of the secretions: 'Unless he comes back a well-to-do family, his interpretation of opportunities are in fact rather better than out of the war.'"

That is probably something that few parents thought of when they waved goodbye at the station. They did not realize that the army and navy are spending the largest education bill in the world. One out of every ten adults in the country, 11 out of every 14 able-bodied men between 31 and 32 will probably be studied by that school system by the end of this year. A million boys will be the production course, the system's prep schools. Mine out of 10 of these men will receive advanced training or graduate.

The Future

Much of the education revolution will be carried over as useful civilian life, for one out of three every army and navy job is identical with a civilian job and over two thirds of the men in the service do
